

Inauguration of LNJPIT Chapra

Loknayak Jai Prakash Institute Of Technology spread over 40 acres of land LNJPIT would be the 7th government Engineering College in the state. The plan is to make it a state of the art technology center and research hub.

The first session would commence from 08/09/2012 with an intake of 240 students in four streams of engineering viz. Civil, Mechanical, Electrical and Electronics, and Computer science and Engineering. LNJPIT would intake 60 students in each of the streams.

There would be around 70 teaching and 25 non-teaching staffs to start with. The Professors for the college would be selected by Bihar Public Service Commission. The institute would have all the required infrastructures for the technical education. It would have Administrative Block, Lecture Halls, Laboratories, Canteens, Recreation Halls etc. There would be separate hostel facilities for boys and girls. The institute would be entire residential.